Stelling Minnis

A Kent Downs Gem

Stelling Minnis is one of the most desirable villages in Kent. Centred around the 'Minnis', one of the last remaining manorial commons in Kent and at 124 acres the feeling of space is unrivalled.

The Kent Countryside

Boasting the Rose & Crown gastro pub that looks over the 'Minnis', a local shop and one of the oldest primary schools in Kent, the 'Outstanding' co-educational Stelling Minnis CEP School, the village is extremely well served.

Stelling Minnis is situated in the North Downs Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, that extends north from the escarpment near Farthing Common to the gently folding hills lying to the south of Canterbury.

The 'Minnis' is well managed by the local community with an aim to enhance nature a major focal point. With fetes, flower shows and cricket, Stelling Minnis provides the archetypal British summer.

Stelling Minnis is home to a Grade I listed wooden smock mill, built in 1866, and operated until 1970. Restored by the local community, it is now a beacon of how the residents of Stelling Minnis take immense pride in their history.

The Space and Beauty of Rural Kent

Well connected to some of Kent's major towns, Stelling Minnis has a degree of rural isolation and the timeless charm of a bygone era that make it a perfect place to put down roots and to either raise a family or to retire to.

Outdoor space for walking, horse riding and cycling is exceptional. Lyminge Forest provides a woodland getaway.

The historic city of Canterbury is a short drive away and has a wide range of schools, a comprehensive shopping centre, theatres, cinemas and is also the home to the University of Kent and Canterbury Christ Church University.

Folkestone, with HS1 links to London, is one of the most innovative coastal towns in the UK. Its cultural scene has blossomed in recent years with major arts festivals and a cultural quarter that leads down to the Harbour Arm which is the go-to foodie destination in the area. A bus service links Stelling Minnis to both Canterbury, Folkestone and Hythe and a highspeed train service to London St Pancras is available from both Canterbury West Station and from Ashford International Station.
